Influencer-turned-boxer Jake Paul returns to the ring tonight in a much-anticipated bout against former world champion Julio César Chávez Jr., in what is being dubbed the YouTuber's most formidable test yet. Scheduled to take place at the Honda Center in Anaheim, California, the fight is expected to draw global attention as fans gear up for an action-packed night of boxing.

Jake Paul Fight Time: Ring Walks and Main Event Details

The Jake Paul vs Chávez Jr. bout will headline a loaded card tonight, Saturday, June 28, 2025. The main card starts at 8 p.m. ET on DAZN pay-per-view, with main event ring walks expected around 11 p.m. ET. / 8:00 p.m. PT. For viewers in the United Kingdom, this translates to approximately 4:30 a.m. UK time on Sunday, June 29, as mentioned in a report by Uncrowned.

The showdown will be available on a pay-per-view basis via DAZN, with U.S. users required to pay $59.99, a price that includes access to DAZN content for seven days. This event comes on the heels of Jake Paul's record-breaking bout last year against Mike Tyson, which drew over 108 million viewers on Netflix, making it the most-streamed sporting event to date.

Julio César Chávez Jr: The Comeback Challenge

Chávez Jr., son of Mexican boxing icon Julio César Chávez, brings a professional record of 54 wins, 6 losses, and 1 draw. The 39-year-old last competed in July 2024, securing a decision win over former UFC star Uriah Hall. While once crowned WBC middleweight world champion (2011–2012), Chávez Jr now faces the challenge of re-establishing his credentials at cruiserweight, a class in which Paul has found recent success.
